Bio

Paul M. Bartkowski is an intellectual property and international trade attorney focusing his practice on Section 337 intellectual property investigations before the U.S. International Trade Commission.

Prior to joining the firm, Paul served as an attorney in the Office of General Counsel at the U.S. International Trade Commission where he advised the Commission on matters relating to Section 337 and represented the Commission in appellate litigation before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. Since leaving the Commission, Paul has focused on litigating Section 337 cases at the ITC, including working with clients to achieve effective strategies to enforce ITC remedial orders and/or to minimize the disruption those orders cause.

Through his experience at the Commission and the firm, Paul has been involved in many of the Commission's high-profile cases and litigation, as well as numerous inter partes proceedings in front of U.S. Customs and Border Protection.

Paul is a contributing author to the second and third editions of the American Bar Association's book entitled "A Lawyer's Guide to Section 337 Investigations Before the U.S. International Trade Commission."
